THE YEAR BOOK

Of the Wheeling Y. M. C. A. has just been issued.

ASSOCIATION'S WORK OUTLINED

IN THE NEW PUBLICATION, WHICH ECLIPSES ALL ITS PREDECESSORS — THE ILLUSTRATIONS VERY GOOD — THE SEASON'S LECTURE COURSE INCLUDES FINE ATTRACTIONS. SPLENDID PHYSICAL CULTURE ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE ENSUING YEAR.

The annual prospectus of the Young Men's Christian Association of Wheeling has just been issued from the Intelligence job rooms, and is the finest and most tastefully arranged ever published by the association. It is full of interesting reading, interspersed with clever illustrations of the works in the different departments, and will doubtless do much to promote the growth of the organization.

The educational, social, physical and religious features are covered in concise form, yet nothing has been lost sight of that will show forth the advantages of membership. It is interesting alike to the average reader as well as the active and associate members.

After the "greeting" the next page is taken up with the roster of officers, directors and managing force, which surmounts a handsome cut of the building. Then follows the simple qualifications for membership. Another page is devoted to the evening classes, comprising those in bookkeeping, penmanship, arithmetic, mechanical drawing and electricity, with the hours and respective instructors.

The educational advantages are well set forth, an appropriate addition being a picture of some young men at checker tables. The intellectual features afford great variety, among them being the reading room, literary, lyceum, talks, photography, and the mandolin club.

The lecture and entertainment course, which opens with the concert at Association hall Tuesday evening, with the celebrated Kunits string quartette, and Miss Grace Damiani, contralto, are noted with taste. The social side of the association calls for deserved words of commendation. The reception room, the parlor, and the special entertainments and receptions, including those on New Year's and Thanksgiving, are elaborately illustrated.

The splendid physical advantages are next dwelt upon. A good picture of a gymnasium class in the wand drill is followed by other cuts of "gym" work, and the regular class schedule from September to June is arranged concisely. There are also something of the bathing facilities and the bowling alleys. The picture of a game in the alleys is very realistic.

Probably the most attractive feature of the prospectus is the page devoted to "general notes." It is not only attractive but practical, telling of many things almost unknown to the general public. Employment is secured for worthy young men when possible, a boarding house register is available, stationery is furnished for correspondence, etc. In fact, personal of the prospectus is well worth the time of any one desiring to improve his leisure moments. The association is non-sectarian and welcomes to its membership men of any religion or no religion. Its fees are so low that clerks, mechanics and laborers can easily meet the small cost. The membership contest to be waged this fall should result in the additional of several hundred members.

Boys under fourteen years of age are not admitted to full privileges but are given restricted privileges at a low price per annum. A new feature this year is the boys' room. It is supplied with boys' papers and popular games and set aside exclusively for the boys' department. The boys are given the use of the "gym," the baths and the bowling alleys during certain hours, and every Sunday afternoon a boys' meeting is conducted by General Secretary J. C. Lynch.

The closing pages of this year's handsome prospectus are given over to the Christian aims of the association, and an enumeration of the profitable meetings held at stated intervals. The Y. M. C. A. includes within itself much of the church, the college and the lyceum. There is no reason why its work should not increase.

THAT GRAND JURY.

Further Argument on the Pleas in Abatement Heard in the Criminal Court—State Does Not Admit Truth of the Pleas—Hearing will be resumed Wednesday.

Saturday, in the criminal court, Messrs. Howard and Smith, representing sixty-six indicted saloonists, filed pleas in abatement in all of the cases, aggregating about 7,500 pleas. Upon the filing of the pleas the state entered a demurrer, and Prosecutor Meyer addressed the court, occupying about two hours and entering into a technical argument, in the course of which he made the claim that the pleas are not sufficient in point of law. The state emphatically does not admit the truth of the pleas, the publication in the Sunday Register to the contrary notwithstanding.

During the past week there has been misstatements made in the newspapers which are calculated to prejudice its case with the public. For instance, it has been said that in the event of a decision against the state in the abatement cases, there would be an enormous bill of costs that would have to be shouldered by the taxpayers. There is not a word of truth in this statement; there will be no costs in the event of a defeat for the state. Up to the present, all of the costs will fall upon the defendants. Some of the saloonists who are represented in the abatement proceedings have said that they would have no costs to pay in the event of the case going against them; that they would be indemnified by certain persons or interests. It may be of interest to the men who are banking on this state of affairs to know that these persons or interests cannot legally be held to such an agreement.

The afternoon session was consumed by Mr. S. G. Smith in argument for the saloon interests. At the conclusion of Mr. Smith's speech, Judge Huges adjourned court until Wednesday morning, when ex-Attorney General Alfred Caldwell will argue for the state and Mr. Howard will close for the saloonists. Attorney General Rucker will be here to look after the state's interests, the case being of great importance. The short license evil in Ohio county has, it is said, caused a direct loss of $25,000 in revenue to the state.

A SLIGHT COLLISION

On the Baltimore & Ohio Near Bellaire Early Yesterday Morning.

A peculiar collision occurred on the Baltimore & Ohio a short distance west of Bellaire about 12:30 o'clock yesterday morning. The east-bound midnight express and a departing freight rubbed sides while going around a curve, but as both were going slow no serious damage resulted. The rear wheels of one freight car and the front wheels of the car following jumped the track, a fact unnoticed by the train hands, and as the passenger came alongside it struck the sides of the cars bulging out over the track.

One freight car was badly wrecked and another empty also got its bumps. Every window in the passenger smoker was shattered by the force of the collision, and the baggage and mail coaches escaped with a slight grazing. The passengers in the smoker received a shaking up, but suffered no further, except the two hours' wait until the wrecking crew put things in shape. The passenger reached Wheeling just before 3 o'clock. It is due here at 1:15.

THE WAR CONCERT.

The war concert, which will be held in the opera house October 28, will be a fine affair. One of the many features is a living shield composed of beautiful children, singing songs of the war, and postures accompanied by the orchestra. Living pictures of the war, which represent history itself, exhibition drills of young ladies and young gentlemen, tableaux, etc. This is the first "War Concert" ever given in the city, and is looked forward to as a great event. It is under the auspices of the Ladies of the G. A. R., given for "sweet charity," and should be liberally patronized.

AGREED TO COME.

Three of the gang of thieves arrested at Martin's Ferry Friday, later changed their minds and agreed to come to West Virginia without requisition papers. They are wanted for burglaries in Jailor McCormick's castle, the Ohio county jail now being Wetzel county's until Col. McEldowney's domain can provide firmer walls. The three men are: Wesley and Pat McGruder and Tom Wilson.

SLICK HORSE THEFT.

About 7:30 o'clock last night, William Helfenbine, of Martin's Ferry, left his horse standing in front of Stone & Thomas' Main street, while he went a short distance away. When he returned later, his horse and buggy had disappeared. The Wheeling police were notified of his loss and they in turn notified the police of surrounding towns. The horse is a brown mare, weight about 1100 pounds, and has a scar on left hip. The buggy is a piano box, with top and narrow gear.
